

Dear FCC,

Please DO NOT relax the requirements for language or content during the hours that children watch TV or even during the later time frames. As the father of 2 daughters and a son, it is nearly impossible to watch TV now without my children being exposed to vulgar language, sexual content or violent/repugnant images during any program, as even if the program doesn't contain it, the commercials for later programming do. The degradation of content has contributed significantly to eroding the moral and ethical fiber of our unique American culture, making it a far less noble and respectable environment to raise children with good character.

The airwaves you regulate belong to us, the American People. We expect you to be good stewards of that property, and to manage it in a way that promotes, not degrades, us as a people, especially when it is for the purpose of earning someone in Hollywood a quick, cheap buck, with no accountability for the long term consequences to our society.
